EXECUTIVE ORDER 9066

0. EXECUTIVE ORDER 9066 - Story Preface

1. EXECUTIVE ORDER 9066

- 2. THE EVACUEES
- 3. LEAVING HOME
- 4. CLOSING BUSINESSES
- 5. INTERNMENT CAMPS
- 6. CAMP MANZANAR
- 7. CAMP POSTON
- 8. MINIDOKA
- 9. TULE LAKE
- 10. FRED KOREMATSU
- 11. CONVICTIONS OVERTURNED
- 12. LESSONS and LEGACY

Executive Order 9066

- In 1942 FDR would issue Executive Order 9066 which stated that "designated personnel" could be removed from designated "military areas"
 - Designated Personnel = JapaneseMilitary Area= Whole West Coast
- This was fought in the Supreme Court case Korematsu v United States. By a vote of 6-3 the Justices determined that "personal rights could be restricted if they posed a public

After Pearl Harbor, many U.S. government officials were concerned that Japan would also bomb America's west coast. As it happened, Minoru Genda had recommended that very thing to his superiors.

Surviving the war, Genda gave many interviews to Gordon Prange, foremost historian of Pearl Harbor. In Pearl Harbor: The Verdict of History, Prange relates an important fact about Genda's intentions.

I was also in favor of bombing the American aircraft factories and oil refineries on the California coast. In December 1941 we could have bombed San Diego, Long Beach, Portland and Seattle without much opposition. (The Verdict of History, page 505.)

Acting on fears that Japan's bombing raids were not over, concerned that an espionage ring was operating out of the Japanese Consulate in Los Angeles, and told (among other things) that some Japanese-Americans (and resident Japanese-aliens) supported Japan's conquests in China, President Roosevelt took an extraordinary step. He signed into law an Executive Order authorizing the United States military to take action against American citizens.

Although Japanese-Americans, Italian-Americans and German-Americans were not specifically named, the February 19, 1942 document was directed toward them. In pertinent parts, Executive Order 9066 states:

I hereby authorize and direct the Secretary of War, and the Military Commanders whom he may from time to time designate, whenever he or any designated Commander deems such action to be necessary or desirable, to prescribe military areas in such places and of such extent as he or the appropriate Military Commander may determine, from which any or all persons may be excluded, and with respect to which, the right of any persons to enter, remain in, or leave shall be subject to whatever restriction the Secretary of War or the appropriate Military Commander may impose in his discretion.

In plain English, this directive allows government officials to decide whether the United States military should exclude certain people from certain parts of the country. In fact, the decision was made that ethnic Japanese, living in the Pacific states, would be excluded from their towns, their homes, their businesses.

If people are "excluded" from their own homes, where would they go?

The Secretary of War is hereby authorized to provide for residents of any such area who are excluded therefrom, such transportation, food, shelter, and other accommodations as may be necessary, in the judgment of the Secretary of War of the said Military Commander, and until other arrangements are made, to accomplish the purpose of this order.

In other words, it was up to the Secretary of War and his advisors to figure out where the excluded citizens would live.

Those individuals came up with a plan to be carried out by the War Relocation Authority. Camps (variously referred to as internment, detention, and concentration) were hastily built as Japanese-American citizens and Japanese resident-aliens were told to start packing their bags and closing their businesses.

The President's actions met with little resistance throughout the various States. In California, for example, the LA Times completely supported the Order:

The time has come to realize that the rigors of war demand proper detention of Japanese and their immediate removal from the most acute danger spots. It is not a pleasant task. But it must be done and done now. There is no safe alternative.

As if that were not enough, the following year the same newspaper added these words as further support for its position:

As a race, the Japanese have made for themselves a record for conscienceless treachery unsurpassed in history. Whatever small theoretical advantages there might be in releasing those under restraint in this country would be enormously outweighed by the risks involved.

Five days after FDR's action, the Canadian government also passed an order—under the Defence of Canada Regulations of the War Measures Act—to intern all "persons of Japanese racial origin."

Around 20,000 Japanese-Canadians were rounded-up from the country's Pacific Coast area—in 1942—and were forced to move to isolated areas where their activities were "severely restricted."

See Alignments to State and Common Core standards for this story online at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/AcademicAlignment/EXECUTIVE-ORDER-9066-Japanese-American-Internm ent

See Learning Tasks for this story online at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/AcademicActivities/EXECUTIVE-ORDER-9066-Japanese-American-Internme nt

Media Stream

Executive Order 9066

EXECUTIVE Ords

In 1942 FDR would issue
Executive Order 9065 which stated that "designated personnel" could be removed from designated "military areas".
Designated Personnel = Japanese
— Military Areas — Whole West Coast
This was fought in the Supreme Court case Korematsu v United States. By a vote of 6-3 the Justices determined that
"personal rights could be restricted if they posed a public threat."

President Roosevelt and His Executive Order 9066

Wikimedia Commons, White House Executive Order

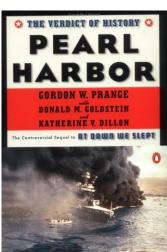

View this asset at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/President-Roosevelt-and-His-Executive-Order-9066

Gordon Prange

Photo of Professor Gordon Prange, teaching a class at the University of Maryland, from the 1964 Terrapin (University of Maryland's yearbook). Image online, courtesy Wikimedia Commons. View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Gordon-Prange

Pearl Harbor: The Verdict of History - by Gordon W. Prange

Cover image online, courtesy Amazon.com.

View this asset at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Pearl-Harbor-The-Verdict-of-History-by-Gordon-W.-Prange

Civilian Exclusion Order No. 5 WISTERN DEFRISE COMMAND AND FOUTTH ABAY WARTIME CIVIL CONTROL ARMINISTRATION Freidis of Sea Frendise, Collisente April 1, 192 INSTRUCTIONS TO ALL PERSONS OF JAPANESE ANCESTRY LUTION IN THI FOLLOWING AREA: All that printing to the City and Control of the Prendise, Base of Collisente, Joing parently went of the active of the Prendise, Base of Collisente, Joing parently work of the active the Established by the Collisente of the City and Control of the Prendise, Base of Collisente, Joing parently work of the active entire in established by the Collisente of the Collisente

tion, and Vote generally nearly of the neathwest line and which of the Nation Street, National National Street, National Street, National Street, National Stre

Orders to Evacuate

Exclusion Order, online courtesy U.S. National Archives.

View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Orders-to-Evacuate