THE ROMAN GAMES

- 0. THE ROMAN GAMES Story Preface
- 1. MARCUS AURELIUS
- 2. LEGACY OF MARCUS AURELIUS
- 3. COMMODUS IN CHARGE
- 4. THE ROMAN GAMES
- 5. COMMODUS IN THE ARENA
- 6. THUMBS DOWN FOR COMMODUS

Life in ancient Rome was hard. Fathers were often separated from their families, defending the Empire's farflung borders. Mothers had lots of children, (the empress Faustina had thirteen), but many babies died. People lived in the city, but wealthy folks had beautiful homes in the country.

To distract citizens from the daily grind, and to protect their own base of power, the Emperor and other wealthy families hosted (and advertised) games. And what games they were!

In the Colosseum - away from the wild animals that were often brought into the arena - Rome's citizens were safely seated, separated by class distinctions. Sometimes they watched men fight other men. These gladiators, as they were called, were Rome's equivalent of movie stars - except that gladiators were members of the lowest class.

Sometimes gladiators fought wild animals instead of each other. Sometimes animals killed other animals. The arena floor was always covered with sand, to absorb all the blood.

At the Circus Maximus, where chariot races and other fanciful activities fascinated the crowd, seating by class distinction was also part of Roman life. Even today's ruins tell a story: Where were the crowds? Where was the Emperor?

Near the end of his disastrous rule, the Emperor Commodus was in the arena, a "gladiator," dressed as Hercules Venator (Hercules, the Hunter). It was the final mockery.

See Alignments to State and Common Core standards for this story online at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/AcademicAlignment/THE-ROMAN-GAMES-Gladiator

See Learning Tasks for this story online at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/AcademicActivities/THE-ROMAN-GAMES-Gladiator

Media Stream

Rome - Women from the Second Century

This image depicts the types of hairstyles which ancient Roman women wore during the 2nd Century A.D.

The busts, depicted in the illustration, are maintained at the Louvre, in Paris. Image online via Costumes.org.

View this asset at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Rome-Women-from-the-Second-Century

Gladiators - Illustration

Image online, courtesy the romans-latin.net website.

PD

View this asset at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Gladiators-Illustration

Wall Sculpture of Gladiators

View this asset at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Wall-Sculpture-of-Gladiators

Circus Maximus Ruins

Image online, courtesy the RomeGuide website.

View this asset at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Circus-Maximus-Ruins0

Bust of Emperor Commodus

Image online, courtesy Wikimedia Commons.

View this asset at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Bust-of-Emperor-Commodus

Bust of Commodus Dressed as Hercules

Image online, courtesy the Maxwell School website.

PD

View this asset at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Bust-of-Commodus-Dressed-as-Hercules