Celia, A Slave

0. Celia, A Slave - Story Preface

- 1. WHO WAS CELIA?
- 2. THE MURDER and the COVER-UP
- 3. TRIAL of CELIA, A SLAVE
- 4. THE VERDICT AGAINST CELIA
- 5. CELIA IS EXECUTED

Typical slave cabin, c. 1830, in Missouri. This is known as the "John Condron slave cabin." Image online, courtesy Library of Congress (American Memory).

They arrived in a land still untamed, an unbroken wilderness filled with opportunity and danger.

(Celia, A Slave, page 4)

The state of Missouri had a law against rape in 1850. It prohibited anyone from taking "any woman unlawfully against her will and by force, menace or duress, compel her to be defiled."

Missouri had another law, in the 1850s, allowing a woman to use deadly force to protect herself from rape. Even homicide was justified

...when committed by any person ... resisting any attempt to ... commit any felony upon him or her.

A court of law would not apply those laws to a slave named Celia.

This is her story.

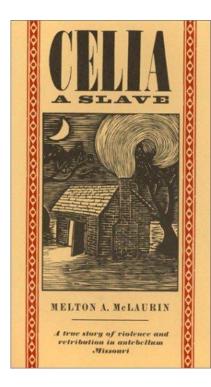

See Alignments to State and Common Core standards for this story online at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/AcademicAlignment/Celia-A-Slave

See Learning Tasks for this story online at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/AcademicActivities/Celia-A-Slave

Media Stream

Celia, A Slave by Melton A. McLaurin Image of book cover, online courtesy Amazon.

Sections of Celia, A Slave, available online at Google Books.

View this asset at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Celia-A-Slave-by-Melton-A.-McLaurin

Celia, A Slave

View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Celia-A-Slave0