D-DAY COMMANDERS

- 0. D-DAY COMMANDERS Story Preface
- 1. THE WEATHER BREAKS
- 2. A CROSS-CHANNEL ATTACK
- 3. WHO WILL COMMAND?
- 4. D-DAY COMMANDERS
- 5. LET'S GO!
- 6. CROSSING THE CHANNEL
- 7. DEATH ON THE SHORE
- 8. DIGGING IN; FIGHTING ON
- 9. UTAH BEACH
- 10. OMAHA BEACH
- 11. DECEPTION
- 12. CANADIANS LAND AT JUNO BEACH
- 13. BRITS LAND AT GOLD BEACH
- 14. ...AND SWORD BEACH
- 15. STUNNING D-DAY FACTS

American troops load their gear and other supplies into landing craft which will take them to a beach along Normandy's coastline. The U.S. Army Center for Military History describes this picture: "American troops load onto landing craft at a port in Britain from where they will shove off for the invasion of Europe on D-Day. Undated - June 1944."

Eisenhower's chief of staff was Lt. General Walter Bedell Smith, an American. Most of his principal commanders were British:

- Air Chief Marshall Sir Arthur Tedder: Principal coordinator of air forces
- Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay: Invasion naval commander
- Air Chief Marshall Sir Trafford Leigh-Mallory: Head of tactical air support
- Air Chief Marshall Sir Arthur T. Harris: Head of RAF Bomber Command
- Lt. General Carl Spaatz, an American: US Strategic Air Force Commander in Europe
- Gen. Sir Bernard Law Montgomery: Pro tem Commander of Allied Ground Forces

Once the troops were ashore, Lt. Gen. $\underline{Omar\ N}$. $\underline{Bradley}$ (known as the "G.I's General") would lead the Americans (the $\underline{First\ U.S.\ Army}$) while General $\underline{Sir\ Miles\ Dempsey}$ would lead the $\underline{Second\ British\ Army}$ (which included Canadians and some French troops).

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., head of the Third U.S. Army, would join the battle after the Allies had achieved a secure foothold on the Continent.

The plan, which would give Allied Forces a chance to break the Nazi's hold on Western Europe, was called "Operation Overlord." Fraught with danger, it anticipated huge casualties as the men tried to secure Normandy's beachheads.

For paratroopers, including members of the 101st Airborne (called the "Screaming Eagles" whom General Eisenhower encouraged before they left England on June 5) and the 82nd Airborne ("All American") Divisions, the likelihood of death was seventy percent.

See Alignments to State and Common Core standards for this story online at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/AcademicAlignment/D-DAY-COMMANDERS-Normandy-Invasion

See Learning Tasks for this story online at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/AcademicActivities/D-DAY-COMMANDERS-Normandy-Invasion

Questions 2 Ponder

What's in a Name like "Operation Overlord?"

This map of the air plan for the Allied landings in Normandy on the 6th of June, 1944, is from Royal Air Force 1939-1945. Volume III: The Fight is Won (by Hilary St. George Saunders). The image appears at page 115; its Crown Copyright has now expired. Click on the image for a full-page view.

When the Allies began to plan the Normandy Invasion, the commanders named the mission "Operation Overlord."

What does "overlord" mean to you?

Do you think "Operation Overlord" was a good name in light of the mission's objectives? Explain your answer.

If you had to change the name of the Operation to something else, what would you call it? Why?

Who Are the Screaming Eagles?

These two men, members of the 101st Airborne—also known as the "Screaming Eagles"—are preparing for D-Day before leaving England. Now maintained at the U.S. National Archives, the photo was taken by a member of the U.S. Signal Corps. Its original caption states: "Pvt. Clarence C. Ware [of San Pedro, California] gives a last second touch to Pvt. Charles R. Plaudo [of Minneapolis, Minnesota]; make-up patterned after the American Indians. Somewhere in England." Image online via the US National Archives; National Archives / ARC Identifier 5957435.

With a 70% chance of being killed, as they paved the way for ground action, paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division had a "Rendezvous with Destiny," to use the words of their first commander, Major General William C. Lee.

These paratroopers, whose stories were told in the HBO series "Band of Brothers," were called-upon to do some of the most-dangerous work of the war in Europe.

Their official history contains these words:

The 101st continued training in England until D-day, 6 June 1944, when its pathfinders became the first Americans to set foot in occupied France.

Following them, the Screaming Eagles parachuted into Normandy and cleared the way for the 1st and 4th Infantry Divisions at Omaha and Utah beaches. After 33 days of continuous fighting, including a bitter battle for the town of Carentan, the 101st returned to England to prepare for future airborne operations.

On 17 September 1944, the 101st jumped into Holland during Operation "Market Garden." Holding a narrow corridor 16 miles long, through enemy territory, from Eindhoven to Grave, the division fought against heavy odds for ten days. The division then continued its role in the liberation of Holland, spending a total of 72 days in combat.

In November 1944, the 101st returned to France for a well-deserved rest, only to be called to action again in the Battle of the Bulge. While defending the critical transportation hub of Bastogne, Belgium, the 101st was surrounded by advancing enemy forces who demanded immediate surrender.

The acting division commander, Brigadier General Anthony C. McAuliffe, made history with his classic reply, "Nuts!" The siege was broken on 26 December 1944, but the fighting continued until 18 January 1945.

After moving through Alsace and the Ruhr Valley, the 101st captured Hitler's mountain retreat at Berchtesgaden. On 30 November 1945, eight months after the German surrender, the Screaming Eagles were inactivated.

Why do you think the paratroopers, of the 101st Airborne, were known as "Screaming Eagles?"

What does that name mean to you?

What would it be like to do a job knowing the risk of death was seventy percent? How would you prepare yourself to face such a difficult task?

On the 75th anniversary of D-Day, Tom Rice—a 97-year-old D-Day paratrooper—made another jump over Normandy. Why do you think he did that?

Media Stream

Americans Loading for Cross-Channel Attack

U.S. National Archives

View this asset at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Americans-Loading-for-Cross-Channel-Attack

Walter Bedell Smith Image online, courtesy the U.S. Signal Corps. PD

View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Walter-Bedell-Smith-

Sir Arthur Tedder Image online, courtesy the historycentral.com website. PD

View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Sir-Arthur-Tedder-

Sir Arthur Tedder - Photo
Image online, courtesy Futura DTP (a Danish-language website).
PD
View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Sir-Arthur-Tedder-Photo

Sir Bertram Ramsay
Image online, courtesy Wikimedia Commons.
PD
View this asset at: http://www.awesemesteries.com/asset/view/Sir F

View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Sir-Bertram-Ramsay

Sir Trafford Leigh-Mallory

Image online, courtesy Wikimedia Commons.

View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Sir-Trafford-Leigh-Mallory-

Sir Arthur T. Harris

Image online, courtesy Wikimedia Commons.

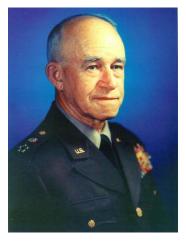

View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Sir-Arthur-T.-Harris-

Carl Spaatz

Image online, courtesy the ibiblio.org website.

View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Carl-Spaatz-

Omar N. Bradley Image online, courtesy Wikimedia Commons.

View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Omar-N.-Bradley

D-Day - Positions Map

Image online, courtesy lucashhistory blog.

View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/D-Day-Positions-Map

Sir Miles Dempsey

Image online, courtesy Wikimedia Commons.

PD

View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Sir-Miles-Dempsey-

D-Day - Second British Army Map

Image described above, online courtesy HyperWar Foundation and iBiblio - The Public's Library and Digital Archive at University of North Carolina (Chapel Hill).

PD

View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/D-Day-Second-British-Army-Map

George S. Patton, Jr.

Image online, courtesy the U.S. Library of Congress.

PD

View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/George-S.-Patton-Jr.

Disposition of German Forces in the West - June 6, 1944

 $\label{thm:mage_entropy} \textbf{Image online, courtesy} \ \underline{\textbf{U.S. Army Center of Military History}}.$

PD

View this asset at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Disposition-of-German-Forces-in-the-West-June-6-1944

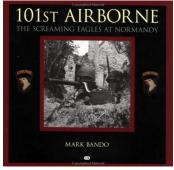

General Eisenhower Briefing Paratroopers

 $Image, \ described \ above, \ online \ courtesy \ Library \ of \ Congress.$

PD

View this asset at:

 $\underline{\text{http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/General-Eisenhower-Briefing-Paratroopers}}$

101st Airborne: The Screaming Eagles at Normandy

Image online, courtesy Zenith Press and Google Books.

View this asset at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/101st-Airborne-The-Screaming-Eagles-at-Normandy

D-Day - All American Airborne Patch

Image online, courtesy Wikimedia Commons.

PΩ

View this asset at: http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/D-Day-All-American-Airborne-Patch-

Operation Overlord - Planning the D-Day Invasion

A Note about the Universal Newsreels. Universal City Studios gave all of the Universal Newsreels to the American people in 1976. Now in the public domain, the entire collection is available at the National Archives and Records Administration in College Park, Maryland. PD

View this asset at:

http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/Operation-Overlord-Planning-the-D-Day-Invasion