

Erich Maria Remarque (1898 - 1970) was a German conscripted soldier (at the age of 18) and a survivor of World War I.

He wrote a novel about his experiences, at the Western Front, which was published in 1929. Its title in German - Im Westen nichts Neues - means "Nothing New in the West."

Remarque's book was published in English with the title: All Quiet on the Western Front. It remains a popular story about the horrors of war and will be remade into a new film (starring Daniel Radcliffe of "Harry Potter" fame) set for release in 2013.

Click on the image for a closer view.

Credits:

Photo of Erich Maria Remarque, in 1929, online courtesy Bundesarchiv ("German Federal Archive"), Bild ("Picture") 183-R04034.

See Alignments to State and Common Core standards for this story online at:

<http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/AcademicAlignment/Erich-Maria-Remarque-All-Quiet-on-the-Western-Front0>

See Learning Tasks for this story online at:

<http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/AcademicActivities/Erich-Maria-Remarque-All-Quiet-on-the-Western-Front0>

Media Stream

Erich Maria Remarque - All Quiet on the Western Front

View this asset at: <http://www.awesomestories.com/asset/view/>