Our "UserGuide" story is the place to discover supportive guides, tools and videos on how to integrate AwesomeStories into your classroom, family learning or personal development.

This is a great place to learn more about the features available with your membership as a teacher, parent, student or administrator.

You can also use the chapters here to educate yourself, grant writers or lenders on the power of the AwesomeStories' community.

As a parent you can learn how to support your child with a home membership, supporting your home-schooling curriculum or supplementing the writing programs at his/her school. The guides here can help you get started on whatever awesome education goals you have!

We have designed this story to include all the support chapters one would need to refresh one's understanding of how things work, to have tools to introduce AwesomeStories to others and to inspire commitment to building the high-quality education community that is AwesomeStories.

Please review the chapters found on the media stream list, to the right, for addressing your topics of interest. We love to hear from users so please send any additional questions, requests for individual support or general praise to membership@awesomestories.org.
