Our story begins with highly successful trial attorney Carole D. Bos, J.D. and her passion for connecting with, captivating and educating judges and jurors in her court cases.

Carole Bos is the founder of AwesomeStories and her vision has led to the creation of this exceptional 21st-century learning tool.

Preparing and trying cases with primary-source evidence—witnesses, pictures, documents, explanatory videos and computer-generated graphics—Carole realized that education in the 21st century could benefit from the rigor and story engagement of the courtroom process.

Whether in the classroom or the courtroom, people learn from examining evidence (primary sources) and hearing differing viewpoints, as all those items are pulled-together in a story format. When the stories are also interactive, as they are at AwesomeStories, learners are involved in the process.

Take a deep dive and plan to spend lots of time exploring everything we have to offer.
